Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Norval Wilson, Jason P. Etchison, Henry C. Pitzer. 3.

NORVAL WILSON was born at Morgantown, Monongahela county, Va., December 24, 1802. His father, Thomas Wilson, was a lawyer of acknowledged ability, who not only met the demands of a large practice, but also filled other conspicuous positions, serving as a legislator in his native Virginia, and in the Congress of the United States. His ancestors were of the sturdy Scotch-Irish stock, who cherished the faith of their fathers with unchanging love. They were Presbyterians of the Presbyterians, who held no Methodist in their line till the subject of this memoir was converted in 1819. In his independence, courage, reverence for the word of God, and other traits, he was no unworthy representative of noble sires. It will be conjectured that in such a family the advantages of culture would not be underrated, and accordingly we find the ample fortune of the father combined with his love of learning to secure to all the children the benefits of a liberal education. Proof is not wanting that the opportunities, in one case at least, were well improved. Then was laid the foundation of that love of letters which strengthened with his strength. It is not too much to say that few of his coadjutors read as constantly or carefully, and as widely as he. While the study of theology was prosecuted, both from convictions of duty and love of that divine science, he found time to explore other fields. His "diary" notes the books which he read, notwithstanding the arduous labors of the itinerancy; history—civil and ecclesiastical—law, science, philosophy, form a partial catalogue of the studies in which he delighted. He was born of God at a camp-meeting, in 1819, and some of his own mightiest victories were in after-life won on fields like that whereon he was brought captive to Christ. His call to the ministry must have soon succeeded his conversion, as we find him admitted a probationer in the Baltimore Annual Conference in 1821, and appointed to the Connellsburg Circuit. In 1822 he was stationed in Baltimore. At the Conference of 1825, Bishop Soule presiding, he was re-appointed to Baltimore City, and resolves, "with humble reliance on God, to proceed to the performance of duty," and closes the work of the second year with the minute: "The two years I have spent here have been two of the most interesting of my life. God has brought me safely through, and my labor has not been altogether in vain in the Lord. I have also acquired many instructive lessons as well from my own experience and observation as from the teaching of the Holy Ghost. O praise the Lord!" His labors and the labors of his colleagues were not in vain. September, 1825, he writes: "A glorious revival has now broken out in Baltimore, both Town and Point, which I pray God may continue and extend far and wide." March, 1826, he was stationed at Ebenezer, Washington, D. C., and 1827 and 1828 at Georgetown. In April of the last-named year, he writes: "The past has been a year of singular mercy to my soul. O may God make the present a year of great grace to myself personally, and also to the flock committed to my care." June, 1826, brother Wilson was married to Miss Cornelia L. Howland, who, after a happy union of forty-seven years, preceded him to the heavenly country, April, 1873. March, 1829, he was appointed to Cumberland District. Having located his family in Winchester, he goes forth to his toil, bearing precious seed. When the extent of the territory of the district and the limited facilities for travel are remembered we find reason to admire the zeal which could inspire and support the preachers of fifty years ago. "April 25—After riding eighty-five miles to Cumberland, preached from Rom. xii. 1. May 1—After riding one hundred and ten miles, preached in New Market, from Heb. xii. 14. September 12—After riding eighty-three miles, preached at the Bedford camp-meeting, held in Trough Creek, from Matt. vii. 7. September 17—After riding forty-one miles, preached at the quarterly-meeting for 'Clear Spring Circuit,' held in Mercersburg, from Neh. iv. 6." Such zeal the more commands our admiration in view of the fact that in the earlier years of his ministry he was subject to violent hemorrhages, insomuch that himself and his friends often despaired of his life. At an Annual Conference held in Washington, he was stationed in Alexandria. He writes: "The Lord has guarded me, upheld me, and in every respect been better to me than all my fears since I have been riding the district. May the same grace, the same Providence, attend me in my present station. Lord help me to be abundant in labors, and grant me much fruit of my labors!" His prayer was heard. August, 1832, he records: "A precious work of grace is now extensively prevailing among us. Within two months, more than two hundred and sixty have been added to the Church. To God be all the glory." April, 1833, he was re-appointed to Baltimore; but his health became so feeble that he was "compelled to desist from preaching for two months." At the ensuing Conference he asked for a circuit, and was appointed to Jefferson, which then included, besides Shepherdstown and Harper's Ferry, three or four of the circuits of to-day. One who knew him well says: "Perhaps nowhere had he been more successful than in this circuit. It was during this term of service that, with a spirit of holy enterprise, he went into the streets of Shepherdstown and called sinners to repentance." March, 1835, at a Conference held in Winchester, he was appointed to the Rockingham District, which then included Rockingham, Roanoke, Pocahontas, and intervening counties. The work was too laborious for his fragile body, though he persevered in it till 1838, when he was relieved and appointed to Winchester Station. He had entered upon the work of the Rockingham District with prayer, and he left it with thanksgiving. "Most devoutly I give thanks to God for my removal from the district, as I was unequal to the performance of its laborious duties." May, 1839, we find this entry: "'The Head of the Church,' has favored us with a revival. This week, seventy-eight have been received into the Church." March 29, 1840, the close of his labors in Winchester is thus noted: "Preached my last sermon from 1 Thess. v. 25, and thus ended two years of preaching, and, I trust, profitable labor in the Winchester Station. God be thanked. Above one hundred and fifty professed to find peace." March, 1840, the Conference assembled in Georgetown, and Brother Wilson was appointed to the Baltimore District. We have seen that he was appointed to the presiding eldership as early as 1829, when little more than twenty-six years old. In 1835, 1840, and again in 1851, he filled the same important office. He was a delegate to not less than seven General Conferences—to all that were held between the years 1828 and 1856, that of 1844 only excepted. He was in his twenty-sixth year when elected to the General Conference of 1828. No one had been sent from the Baltimore Conference at so early an age, and it is believed that in this particular no part of its history can furnish a parallel. The momentous troubles in Episcopal Methodism, which had their culmination at the General Conference of 1844, placed the Baltimore Conference in a painful position. The history of this strife is too recent to have been forgotten by men yet in their prime; it is therefore not necessary to reproduce the sad details which many are now striving to forget. It is enough to say, though the conservative spirit of the Conference was sorely tried, it was never exhausted, and every effort made to force the body to take a new attitude proved ineffectual. The action taken as early as 1845 was never repented. The pledges it gave were in due time redeemed, and to-day a review of its relations to the exciting questions of a thirty years' war leads to the conclusion that the Conference could not have done better, and on its own account has little to regret. Brother Wilson helped to shape the judgments of his Conference, and earnestly maintained and defended them. This he did when it was not cheap to be found their advocate. It would be easy to name times when he dared to assert his own convictions and become the champion of his brethren; times when the passions of men made it unsafe to appear in such a cause, or when the power of Cæsar put personal liberty, if not life, in peril. But his Roman nature had in it little of the "rascally virtue—prudence." He was bold, but not rash; he did not court danger, neither did he shrink from it if it lay in the path of duty. He threw himself into the breach when timid men would have wavered, and inspired other hearts with the example of his own courage. The year 1865 found him in Virginia, where he had long resided; and soon the question of Church relations demanded settlement. To say that this question was decided by the accident of residence would be to reflect almost equally upon his mind and heart—would be to antagonize him to himself. Brief allusion has been made to his relation to the strife of dreary years. The Conference of 1861 was confronted by a stern necessity—it must redeem its pledges, or stand convicted of infidelity. The decision was soon made. Any one who will read the pastoral letter of that year, prepared by a committee of which Brother Wilson was a member, will easily forecast his future, and see that conviction, and not convenience, decided his course in after years. He was elected President of the Conference, held at Bridgewater, March, 1864; and again of that held at Alexandria, March, 1866, when the body united with the M. E. Church, South. The Conference of the last-named year gave another proof of its confidence in an old leader, and Brother Wilson was sent as a delegate to the first General Conference of the M. E. Church, South, in which the Baltimore Conference had a representative. Enough has been written to indicate the sources of his power; but a word must be added to account for the high intellectual character and rich variety which marked his discourses. His talents were of a high order; but let it not be thought that what he accomplished was the easy effort of genius. A note has been made of the reading of the first few months of his religious life. In the same minutes which record his repeated readings of the Scriptures during twenty years we find these additions: "Besides, I have read 347 volumes; I have traveled in that time 30,943 miles, and preached 2,858 sermons. There is but a partial record of conversions; this record is on high. I am an unprofitable servant.

I the chief of sinners am,
But Jesus died for me. Amen!"

Throughout his diary, on almost every page, we read "finished reading"—"finished reading the second time." There is not a single note of a book begun and not read. Probably there were such—books that were found on examination not to deserve the time a careful reading would require; but the record always is "finished." These books were generally weighty in character, such as would exercise, improve, and inform the mind. He expected to succeed by inspiration, but he only then expected the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, when he had furnished his mind by reading, and methodized his thoughts by study and prayer. Perhaps nothing will more fully indicate the spirit of his life and work than a paper found after his decease, in which he records his formal consecration to God:

"O very merciful and gracious Father, from whom I have received my being and my blessings, I have been unbelieving and refractory. Though many years ago I received forgiveness of sins as an act of thy grace, and though I have often felt it a duty to make a solemn and entire dedication of myself to thee, yet has my wayward heart hesitated and refused. I repent before thee, and though weak and trembling, I now propose, invoking the aid of thy grace to assist, to enter upon an act of self-consecration (which I now do), and I beseech thee, in consideration of my great Daysman, accept the offering. Here, then, I present to thee my soul, embracing my intelligence and my passions; my body, including the exercise of its members and its appetites; my heart, with its varied emotions; my time, my substance, my all; purposing to restrain my passions, to refrain from every word, work, thought, being incompatible with . . . as a consecrated child of God. I purpose henceforth to be solely intent on thy glory and subject to thy will, and to lead a life of faith in the Son of God who loved me, and gave himself for me. Graciously accept my person, and powerfully maintain me in this holy and earnest consecration, through Jesus Christ and by the Holy Spirit. Now, unto the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost be glory forever. NORVAL WILSON.

"Winchester, Va., July 16, 1846."

JASON P. ETCHISON was the youngest child of Ephraim and Ruth Etchison, and was born in Montgomery county, Maryland, September 22, 1820. In his early life he was made acquainted with privation and trial. When about nine years of age he was left fatherless, and the support of a large family, with limited means, devolved upon his mother and her sons. He enjoyed such educational advantages as were furnished at that time by the obscure rural neighborhood in which he lived. In the seventeenth year of his age he was converted to Christ in the old Mount Lebanon Church, near his home, and became a member of the Methodist Communion. This was the beginning of a consecrated Christian life, which seemed always to grow deeper in its experiences, and richer in its fruits of holiness. From the time of his conversion, Brother Etchison felt that God was calling him into the gospel ministry. It was an ever-deepening impression upon his heart that unto him had the dispensation of the word of life been committed. But with that diffidence and distrust of his own abilities which were such marked features of his character, he hesitated to avow his convictions to his brethren in the Church. He felt that his knowledge and mental training were not sufficient to justify him in undertaking the sacred and difficult work of the ministry. In the meantime he was united in marriage to Miss Annie Warthen, a lady whom he had known from childhood. But the claims and interests of his earthly home could not divert his attention permanently from the great duty toward which it had been divinely directed. The exercises of his mind upon this subject finally became painful even to agony. God was thrusting him out to do the work appointed him. And at last, with much fear and trembling, and with a single-hearted dependence upon Him who has said to them that go forth in his name, "Lo, I am with you alway," he offered himself for admission into the ranks of the itinerant Methodist ministry. He was employed for one year by Rev. N. J. B. Morgan, P. E., upon the Patapsco Circuit; at the close of which time he was received on probation into the Baltimore Annual Conference. His subsequent appointments were as follows: 1852-3, Lexington Circuit; 1854-5, Blue Sulphur; 1856-7, Levelton; 1858, Frankford; 1859-60, Rehoboth; 1861-2, Fairfield; 1863-4-5, Finncastle; 1866-7, Baltimore Circuit; 1868-9, East Baltimore Station; 1870, Baltimore Circuit; 1871-2-3, Salem; in 1874-5 he was superannuated; in 1876 he was appointed to Arlington and Pikesville. For a number of years his health was feeble, and his physical sufferings sometimes extreme. But, under these heavy disabilities, he continued to prosecute his work with unabated zeal and signal success. The urgency of his love to the Church and the souls of men would not allow him to cease from his labors until he should rest in heaven. Even during his superannuated term, up to the measure of his ability, he preached and exhorted; and even beyond his ability did he strive, "that by all means he might save some." Notwithstanding his shattered health, he entered upon the duties of his last charge with his accustomed earnestness and devotion, and with the prospect of abundant usefulness. But his work was done. On May 1, 1876, he fell sick of pneumonia, and on the last day of the same month found a sweet release from all suffering and toil. During his illness he was able to converse with his friends very little, but the testimonies which he gave them were the same calm, clear, joyous utterances with which all who knew him were familiar—unwavering confidence in God, and conscious victory through the blood of the Lamb. Brother Etchison was a man greatly beloved. No minister of our Conference ever won a more general appreciation or warmer personal friends among his ministerial brethren, and in the congregations to which he ministered; and the tidings of his death awakned a sense of bitter loss in very many hearts. As a pastor Brother Etchison was affectionate, full of sympathy, and attentive. His sermons were clear, plain, scriptural presentations of gospel truth, and were delivered with great earnestness and unction. He felt the gospel which he preached—felt it tenderly and deeply—and longed, with an inexpressible longing, to impart its saving truths to all who heard him. In prayer and exhortation he was singularly touching and impressive. A large number of souls were brought to the cross through his efforts; a multitude were guided and comforted in the way of life. And we rejoice in the assurance that he is dwelling now in the Saviour's presence, with many souls to whom he ministered upon earth. "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters; and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

HENRY CLAY PITZER, son of John L. and Harriet A. Pitzer, was born in Covington, Alleghany county, Va., September 22, 1844; was converted in the same town, March, 1857; departed this life in Union, W. Va., February 8, 1877, and was buried in Covington, February 10. He was licensed to preach by the Rev. W. G. Coc, in his native town, April 10, 1871, and employed by his presiding elder as a colleague to the lamented R. S. Shreve, on Monterey Circuit. March, 1872, he was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference, and returned to the same field. After two and a half years of very acceptable and successful service on that circuit, he was in March, 1874, admitted into full connection and ordained deacon by Bishop Doggett, and appointed to White Sulphur Station. March, 1875, after a year of faithful work and thorough consecration to the important interests of our Church at White Sulphur, he was appointed to take charge of Union Circuit. March, 1876, he was ordained elder by Bishop Marvin, and reappointed to Union Circuit. March, 1874, he was married to Miss Sallie H. Pettigrew, of Lexington, Va., who, with two little children, survives him. The personal life of Brother Pitzer was beautiful and exemplary. "He was always a good child," is the testimony of those who knew him during the early portion of his life; he gave his heart to God, and received the assurance of pardon, when a little over twelve years of age; his conversion was clear and satisfactory, his experience deep and abiding; his ministerial life also was beautiful and exemplary; here again his conviction of duty was clear and convincing. The presence of the apostolic saying, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel!" was to him the voice of Christ. To hear was to obey—he gave himself wholly to the ministry. The people of the several pastoral charges where he labored, and his co-laborers, are witnesses of his consecration and devotion to his work. His zeal was quenchless and tireless. Success and prosperity attended him in all his charges. Sinners were convicted, converted, saved. Believers were encouraged, strengthened, edified. He was affectionate in his nature; warm, true, unselfish; sound in doctrine, firm in discipline; blameless in life; worthy and well qualified in every part of ministerial and pastoral work. As a preacher he was clear, forcible, pathetic; a sweet singer, and a faithful laborer at the altar. Sunday night, January 21, after the usual labors of the day, having preached twice, found him at his appointment in Union—a revival was in progress. On Monday night again, although the day was one of languor and feebleness, he was still standing at his post. Tuesday, in the hands of a physician—yet he preached at night. Wednesday, still under medical treatment and growing worse, hardly able to stand alone—yet he managed to get to the church and preached what proved to be his last sermon. After preaching he labored at the altar; closed the service with an able and earnest exhortation, and returned to the parsonage to take his bed and to die. After a few days of great suffering, the disease attacked his brain; he became unconscious, and never had a lucid moment afterward. February 8, 1877, about 2 o'clock P.M., he fell asleep in Jesus. On Sunday, the 10th, his presiding elder, Rev. W. G. Coe, preached his funeral sermon in Covington, Va., to a large congregation of weeping friends, from 2 Timothy iv. 6-8. In these words we all read the past fidelity, the readiness for death, and the glorious immortality of our beloved departed brother. "He ceased at once to work and live."

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed, except that of Robert A. McIlhenny, who was expelled.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 18. Who are superannuated? John B. Tullis, Joseph M. Blanton. 2.

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? James R. Bellamy. 1.

JAMES R. BELLAMY was born of pious parents in Scott county, Va., on January 10, 1817, and departed this life at his residence in Panola county, Texas, on January 6, 1877, of pneumonia. We feel inadequate to the task of doing justice to the memory of one so abundant and successful in labors, and so much beloved by his brethren and numerous friends. He was indeed a "true yoke-fellow" in the gospel harness. He was converted in his boyhood days, entered the ministry in 1843, and was admitted into the Holston Conference the year following. In this Conference he filled eight appointments on as many circuits. During these years his labors were owned and blessed of the Lord. He received into the Church 1,550, and traveled circuits averaging 23 appointments to each round. At the close of the year 1851, he asked for and obtained a transfer from the Holston Conference to the East Texas Conference. Here he has labored faithfully upon missions, circuits, and districts with but brief intervals, occasioned by feeble health, until his Master called him from labor to rest. He was a man of sound, practical sense, with a mind well stored with the great doctrinal truths of the Bible, and with a happy flow of language in the forcible presentation of those truths. He was not only a good preacher, but was also a faithful pastor. His knowledge of our doctrines, founded upon the words of inspiration, preëminently qualified him to fully sustain them in his pulpit ministrations. His deep piety and fervent zeal for the cause of Christ won many trophies for the Church of God. While we deeply deplore his death, and heartily sympathize with his bereaved companion and orphan children, we praise God for giving his Church such a man and minister as James R. Bellamy to labor with us and for us for the space of twenty years. He seldom spoke on the Annual Conference floor; but when he did, he spoke rightly and at the right time. He was emphatically a working member of our body, and understood the whole machinery of Methodism, and knew how to adjust its running apparatus. For several years his health had declined, but he could not consent to become a drone in the gospel hive. He went forth even with crippled wing to gather sweets for his Master's store-house, until burdened with the fruitage of faith and good works, he took his flight to the heaven of his fondest hopes. His last words gave assurance that his lamp was trimmed and burning, and he was ready to enter the marriage-supper of the Lamb. The night before he died, a near friend and brother called to see him, and asked him what were his future prospects. He replied: "So far as my future prospects are concerned, all is well." A few hours before he breathed his last, he sent for Brother J. C. A. Bridges (now his successor on the San Augustine District). When he arrived he found him very near death's door, not in a situation to converse much; as he approached his bedside, our dying brother softly whispered, saying: "Sing 'O come, angel band, come, and around me stand!'" About the close of that sweet song he raised both hands, and looking as though he could see their coming and hear the rustling of their "snow-white wings," he closed the eyes which had shed many a briny tear as he had so often and so invitingly looked upon perishing sinners, then folded his arms across his breast, and his happy spirit departed in peaceful triumph. Truly may it be said of his departure from earth to heaven that "he had fought a good fight, and finished his course, and kept the faith, and that there was laid up for him a crown of righteousness."

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Oliver Eady. 1.

OLIVER EADY, presiding elder of Gainesville District, fell at his post on the morning of Wednesday, September 4, 1877. It was not during the first flush of youth, when, standing upon the threshold of action, his anticipations bright bid him go forward—nor in the day when age hath laid its cold hand upon the energies, paralyzing human effort for good, bidding the heart to rest in faith, and sending it for its joys to the recollections of the past, or forward in anticipation of the future; but it was in the vigor of manhood, in the very midst of the battle, when day by day and hour by hour, through the blessing and grace of God, he was enjoying in part at least the fruits of the victory, when the hopes of his earlier manhood were returning again, bringing with them the rich fruitage of many years consecrated to God and the Church. It was in the midst of all this that this Christian warrior, this valiant soldier of the cross, was called upon to lay down his armor and take up the harp—to exchange a life of toil for one of rest, to give up the society of loved ones and join the blood-washed throng on high. For many long years he was a faithful, earnest, and devoted minister of the gospel. The Church was dear to his heart, and even during his last day on earth, and even in the last hour of consciousness, he was deeply concerned in and pleading for her well-being. He is gone. We deeply deplore our loss; and while we, in profoundest sympathy with his bereaved family, and with the Church of God, would scatter upon his grave the tears of affection, we do at the same time bless the great Head of the Church for the pure, devoted Christian life and ministry of our departed brother, and rejoice in the good hope of ere long meeting him close by the throne of God.

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? George W. Smith, James Holmes. 2.

GEORGE W. SMITH was born in the State of Ohio, March 29, 1838. His parents removed to Kentucky while he was very young. Trained up religiously, he united with the Church when about ten years of age, and was happily converted; when about eighteen he commenced preaching, and was admitted into the Kentucky Annual Conference at Winchester in 1856. He was not an idler in the vineyard, but diligent in reading, in study, in prayer, and very zealous in labors for the good of souls. He believed and professed the doctrine of perfect love, and beautifully exemplified it in his life and ministry. He believed with all his heart just what God says in his word, and with the artlessness of a child conformed in spirit and deportment to the same. Though a great sufferer from protracted affliction, he not only continued his labors as long as possible, but was singularly useful and greatly beloved by the people as a pastor. His last appointment was to Bloomfield and Beechfork, where he fell asleep March 19, 1877. Brother Smith married Miss Joanna McIntyre, of Fleming county, Kentucky, January 13, 1860. She and four children are left to mourn his death. The blessing of the Lord be upon them!

JAMES HOLMES was born in North Carolina, March 27, 1820. About 1850 he moved to Middle Tennessee, and joined the M. E. Church, South. In 1841 he was happily married to Miss Millie Lee, who shared with him his joys and sorrows until they were separated by death in the early part of the present year. He was licensed to preach June 17, 1854. He supplied circuits six years as a local preacher. In 1871 he was recommended to the Annual Conference for admission into the traveling connection, and was received, and appointed to the Jacksonville Mission. His second appointment was the Hardinsville Circuit, one year; third appointment, Irwin Circuit, one year; fourth appointment, Foster, one year; fifth appointment, Jacksonville Mission. Brother Holmes was ordained deacon October 7, 1860, and elder September 24, 1865. In Monroe, Green, and Ohio counties his labors were greatly blessed as a local preacher, especially in the last. In all his public ministry he was very careful to meet his appointments promptly, going through all kinds of weather cheerfully to do so. His health had been declining some time previous to his death. Just before Conference he sent for the writer to come and see him, and make out his report, and bear it to the Conference for him. On a former visit he had expressed his great desire to meet once more with his brethren in an Annual Conference; but at this time he had entirely given up that hope, and decided to ask for a supernumerary relation, hoping that a rest of one year would build him up, and he could be effective again. About ten days before his death he grew rapidly worse, and realized the fact that his end was near. He said, "Tell my brethren that the same faith that sustained me in life sustains me in death." There seemed to be a holy calm resting upon his soul, holding his will in submission to the will of God in all things; and resting upon his shield of faith, he quietly awaited the appointed hour. He was buried beside his wife, in Franklin county, by the Masonic fraternity.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? J. H. Linn. 1.

JOHN H. LINN, D.D., was born at Lewisburg, Greenbrier county, Va., A.D. 1812. He was brought up in extreme poverty, being dependent on the public school and kindness of friends for his education, which was as thorough as the best schools of the day could afford, embracing not only the English branches, but also Latin and Greek. He was brought up in the Old Presbyterian Chmrch; but, not being able to receive the Calvinistic theology, when he made a profession of religion he united with the Methodist Church. He had been impressed from childhood that he would be a preacher of the gospel, and after his conversion, after passing through a most painful conflict, he was licensed to preach, and recommended to be admitted into the traveling connection in the Baltimore Conference in 1835. The Conference being very full, however, he was not admitted, but employed by Rev. Norval Wilson as junior preacher on the Franklin Circuit, with James M. Green as preacher in charge. In 1836 he was admitted into the traveling connection and reappointed to the Franklin Circuit, with F. M. Mills as his colleague. In 1837 he was appointed to the Lexington Circuit, with G. W. Humphrey as his colleague. In the spring of 1838 he was transferred to the Kentucky Conference, and was appointed to the Georgetown Circuit to fill a vacancy caused by the death of the lamented Thomas H. Gibbons. In the fall of 1838 he was reappointed to the Georgetown Circuit. In 1839 he was appointed to the city of Maysville. In 1840 he was stationed at Fourth Street in the city of Louisville. In 1841 he was stationed at Harrodsburg and Danville. In 1842 he was transferred to the Missouri Conference and stationed at Centenary Church in the city of St. Louis for two years. In 1844 he was appointed agent of St. Charles College. Early in the year, however, the agency was abandoned, the college being suspended on account of the death of Dr. Fielding, the president. In the winter of 1844, with a view to the health of his wife, he visited the city of New Orleans. While there a vacancy having occurred in the pastorate of Poydras Street Church, he was appointed to fill the vacancy. Early in April of 1845, being notified of his appointment as one of the commissioners to adjust the difficulties between the M. E. Church and the Southern Conferenccs, he returned to the city of Louisville to meet the other commissioners. In 1845 he was appointed to the city of Hannibal in the Missouri Conference. In 1846 he was transferred to the St. Louis Conference and stationed at Jefferson City. In 1847 and 1848 he was stationed at Fourth Street, St. Louis. In 1849 he was transferred to the Louisville Conference and stationed at Fourth Street, Louisville, for two years. In 1851 he was transferred to the Kentucky Conference and stationed for two years at Soule Chapel, Cincinnati. In 1853 and 1854 he was stationed at Frankfort, Ky.; in 1855 at Danville; in 1856 and 1857 at Lexington; in 1858 and 1859 at Shelbyville. In 1860 he was transferred to the Louisville Conference and stationed at Walnut Street, Louisville; in 1861 and 1862 at Brook Street; in 1863 at Eighth Street; in 1864 at Chestnut Street; in 1865 and 1866 at Brook Street; in 1867 and 1868 at Broadway. During the Conference year, in the spring of 1869, he was transferred to the Baltimore Conference and stationed for two years at Central Church in the city of Baltimore. In 1871 he was transferred to the St. Louis Conference and stationed for two years at Centenary Church in the city of St. Louis. In 1874 he was transferred to the Louisville Conference and stationed for two years at Chestnut Street in the city of Louisville. In 1876 he was appointed to the Louisville District as presiding elder, and died in great peace, December 7, 1876, in the sixty-fourth year of his age and in the forty-first year of his ministry. Shortly before his last return to Kentucky he had had a slight attack of paralysis, from the effects of which he never recovered. It was hoped that on a district, being freed from the pastoral work, he would recuperate. This hope, however, proved to be vain. The disease returned upon him with increased violence. He had several severe attacks by which he was utterly prostrated physically; and for most of the time he was deprived of the use of his mental powers. In the few lucid intervals, however, he was enabled to give to his family and to his numerous friends the assurance that he was ready "to depart and be with Christ." Looking back, he could feel that he had fought a good fight, had finished his course, and had kept the faith; and looking forward, he could realize that a crown of righteousness was laid up for him, which the Lord the righteous Judge would give him in that day. Dr. Linn was a truly converted and holy man. He was surely called of God to the Christian ministry. He was a sound theologian. He was an uncompromising Methodist, both in doctrine and discipline; and at the same time, and for this reason, he was a catholic Christian, loving all the people of God, and associating with them upon the most intimate terms. He was a faithful minister of Christ. He defended the truth, he exposed error, he denounced sin among all classes. Dr. Linn was a man of a very high order of genius. While in the prime of life he possessed in a very high degree the reproductive power, combined with the comparative faculty, which invested him with the highest degree of the creative imagination. All that he had ever known in nature, in art, in science, in philosophy, or history, he could reproduce and make available to the illustration and enforcement of divine truth. His discourses were often a combination of the overwhelmingly sublime and of the transcendently beautiful. Though possessing a princely presence he was not in the highest sense an orator. His voice was strong and masculine, but lacked flexibility and music; it was indeed a deep bass monotone. But, though he lacked most of the qualities of an orator, he was in a very high sense "an eloquent man." He spoke out of the heart and reached the hearts of his hearers, and so captivated them that, for the time, he had complete control of them. He excelled more as a rhetorician than as a logician. He had just enough of logic to open the way for his wonderful rhetorical appeals. In the death of Dr. Linn, "a prince and a great man is fallen among us." But our comfort is that having fulfilled the ministry which he had received from the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God, he has finished his course with joy, and has gone to receive his reward. "Though dead, he yet speaketh."

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Robert H. Burns, John Moss, Thomas P. Davidson. 3.

ROBERT H. BURNS, the son of Robert H. and Charlotte Burns, was born January 20, 1829, in Haywood county, Tennessee, about eight miles north of Brownsville. He professed religion in 1844; was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of the Jackson Circuit, with the Rev. J. W. McFarland as presiding elder, January 12, 1850; was admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference in 1852, and appointed to the Cageville Circuit with the Rev. J. M. Scott; was ordained deacon by Bishop Paine, October 29, 1854; was ordained elder by Bishop Early,

October 17, 1856. His ministry continued through a course of twenty-seven years. His good natural endowments enabled him, with small literary attainments, to so persevere in his application as to become one of the most useful preachers of the gospel among us. His clear statement and earnest delivery of the truth, together with a singular sweetness of voice, possessed by few, gave him unusual power over his auditory. His presiding elder, the late Dr. G. W. D. Harris, once said on the Conference floor, "Robert H. Burns is the best circuit preacher I ever saw"—no mean commendation from such a man. His power in this respect lay in this, that he attended to all the duties of his office, and made every thing work to the conversion of sinners, and edification of the Church. He was a revivalist in the true sense, for he gave new life to every circuit that he traveled. His uncommon knowledge of human nature, a good judgment, and a sweet sympathy for each and every one, gained him a conquest at nearly every meeting. Excessive toil as an evangelist cost him his life. On the fourth Sabbath in June, 1867, while preaching at Humboldt, his voice suddenly failed—the result, no doubt, of frequent speaking and continued singing. For nearly a year he was unable to speak above a whisper—much of the time not able to speak at all. By slow degrees he so far recovered as to be able to converse as usual, and to preach occasionally, but was never well again. His disease finally extended until it prostrated him during the past summer. In all his hours of nervous prostration, and anxiety about a helpless family, he was patient and submissive. During his last illness, he was visited by the Rev. W. T. Harris, his classmate in the ministry. Said he: "When you go to Conference, please represent me when my name is called, whether I am in the ground or out of it. Tell my brethren that the gospel which I have preached is no fable." With this mind in him, trusting in Christ alone for salvation, he died peacefully and without a struggle, August 28, 1877.

JOHN MOSS, son of John and Susanna Moss, was born in Wilson county, Tenn., March 23, 1825. His educational advantages, though limited, were diligently improved, and so he was well grounded in the rudiments of knowledge; indeed, it may be said that he acquired in the common schools of the country a liberal English education. When about seventeen years old, he removed with his father's family to Hickman county, Kentucky, and in his eighteenth year he embraced the religion of Christ—was soundly regenerated—at Mobley's Camp-ground. His early religious training, followed by his conversion to Christ when he was eighteen years old, initiated him well into the life-long work to which he was called by the Holy Ghost. He was licensed to preach in 1845, and the same year admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference—was in 1847 admitted into full connection and ordained deacon by Bishop Soule, and was in 1849 ordained elder by Bishop Cat-pers. Eversince his admission on trial, almost to the close of his thirty-second year as a traveling preacher, his name has stood on the effective list, and all his time and strength and his rare gifts he devoted to the regular ministry. He received and filled the following appointments: Murray Circuit, 1845-46; Dresden Circuit, 1846-47; Clinton Circuit, 1847-48; Jackson Circuit, 1848-49; Paducah Station, 1849-50; Paris Station, 1850-51; Dyersburg Circuit, 1851-52; Trenton Circuit, 1852-53; Jackson Circuit, 1853-54 and 1854-55; Aberdeen Station, 1855-56 and 1856-57; Jackson Station, 1857-58 and 1858-59; Grenada District, 1859-60 and 1860-61; Holly Springs District, 1861-62, 1862-63, 1863-64, and 1864-65; Somerville District, 1865-66; Memphis District, 1866-67, 1867-68, 1868-69, and 1869-70; Somerville District, 1870-71, 1871-72, 1872-73, and 1873-74; Memphis District, 1874-75, 1875-76, and 1876-77. Thus it appears he served eight years as a circuit preacher, six he spent in stations, and eighteen almost he was a presiding elder—an office in the itinerary which he filled with unusual ability and marked success; and he was continued presiding elder for so long a time because the fruits of his labor from year to year showed his special fitness for the office. His sermons were finished productions both in thought and language, masterly in conception and construction, and usually they were, as they fell from his lips, so entirely correct in arrangement and expression that they might have been put in print, for reading, without change of a sentence or even a word. Though he was not a natural orator, his preaching was always instructive, often very impressive, and sometimes remarkably powerful; and the fruits of his ministry were abundant in religious revivals, in strengthening believers, in comforting the afflicted, and in leading sinners to Christ. He was indeed a man of one work; and for the gospel's sake, for the honor of Christ, for the prosperity of the Church at home and abroad, for the salvation of souls, he lived and prayed, and worked, and suffered, and died at last—died at his post, on the Sabbath-day, October 21, 1877.

THOMAS P. DAVIDSON, son of Thomas and Nancy Davidson, was born in Iredell county, North Carolina, July 15, 1802. His early training in religion was Calvinistic—Presbyterian. His opportunities at school were but limited, as was the case for the most part with the youth of the country in his day. While he was a boy his family removed to the West, settling first in Stewart county, Tennessee. When about grown, he lived awhile in Hopkinsville, Kentucky, where, under the ministry of the Rev. John Johnson, a famous preacher of that time, he was received on trial in the Methodist Church as a seeker of religion, June 9, 1822; and one day in the month he obtained the witness of the new birth, and rejoiced in Christ as his own Saviour from the guilt and pollution of sin. Abounding in zeal, he was in a few weeks appointed class-leader, and not long afterward steward—holding both offices before he was received into full membership in the Church. Continuing to advance in religious knowledge, and showing fitness for work in a wider gospel field, he was, in the spring of 1824, appointed by the presiding elder, Rev. Charles Holliday, to supply Livingston Circuit; and with him, as a supply also, was appointed Fountain E. Pitts, then a novice, but subsequently a wonderfully eloquent and successful preacher, who in 1874, finished his course with joy. On Livingston Circuit, Thomas P. Davidson began a career in the itinerary remarkable for usefulness, though as yet he labored without authority from the Church beyond the presiding elder's appointment. Early in the autumn of 1824 he returned to his father's, and soon he witnessed at a camp-meeting the happy conversion of his mother and other relatives; his mother had long been a member of the Presbyterian Church, but without vital religion. September 18, 1824, at Manley's Chapel, then an appointment of Sandy Circuit, Forked Deer District, he was licensed to preach the gospel, as were five others, including his brother, the late Samuel R. Davidson. The presiding elder on the occasion was the Rev. Robert Paine, our present senior Bishop. In the Minutes of the Tennessee Conference, held in Columbia, November, 1824, among those admitted on trial appears the name of Thomas P. Davidson; and now that he has passed away, all the members of the class of that year, we believe, are numbered with the sainted dead—one of them was the late Dr. A. L. P. Green, of precious memory. For ten years Thomas P. Davidson itinerated in the Tennessee Conference, chiefly as a pioneer in West Tennessee, then a new country which was being rapidly settled by families from the older States. During that time he did the hardest, and perhaps the best, the most useful work of his life; encountering and overcoming the most serious obstacles, and keeping fully abreast with the incoming tide of population; having religious revivals at his regular appointments in the week as well as on Sunday, and in protracted meetings also; organizing churches, into which were gathered old members among the immigrants and new members just brought to a saving knowledge of Christ—doing, in a word, the work of a pioneer preacher, which involved labor, privation, and exposure, extraordinary in degree, such as required the exercise of all the resources of nature and grace in order to success. Some of our oldest and strongest churches were organized by Thomas P. Davidson, and the influence of his pioneer work remains all over this country. At the end of ten years he located on account of ill health. In 1836 he joined the Mississippi Conference, and was stationed at Grenada; but his health still being feeble, he located at the close of the next year. In 1842 he settled in the suburbs of Memphis, where during the latter part of the next year he served Wesley Church—now First Church—in the place of the Rev. S. S. Moody, whose health had failed; and for three years, at intervals, on account of preachers retiring from the work in ill health, he served Asbury

Church—now Hernando Street Church. In 1856 he joined the Memphis Conference; and subsequently filled various appointments around and below Memphis, including a number in the Mississippi Bottom District, where for two years he was presiding elder. In 1873, in the midst of age and feebleness extreme, "worn out in the work," he was superannuated by the vote of his brethren; though he felt—as has often been the experience of veterans—that he was still able to do mission or circuit work. Indeed, he did continue to labor, never ceasing to preach and exhort, as long as he had strength. His final illness was painful and protracted. During its fatal progress he was graciously sustained, and often rejoiced in a full present salvation, and in a glorious hope of eternal life.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions in the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Jesse McKay, Calvin C. Watkins. 2.

JESSE MCKAY was born in Sumter District, South Carolina, February 18, 1795. He joined the Methodist Church the day he was twelve years old, and one week afterward he professed religion. He emigrated with his parents to Maury county, Tennessee, in the fall of 1811, and from thence to Amite county, Mississippi Territory. Here he was a member of one of the first Methodist churches in this part of the (then) new country. He was a soldier in the war of 1812. On the 16th of January, 1816, he was married to Miss Cassie Winburn. In 1832, he removed to Madison county, Mississippi, and in 1837 to Scott county, which had just been purchased by the Government from the Choctaw Indians. Here he was one of the first white settlers. In the earlier part of the year 1836, the first Methodist church in the county was organized at his dwelling, with seven members, he being class-leader, and the Rev. Elijah Steele preacher in charge. Later in the year they built a church-house, and floored it with puncheons hewed with broad-axes by Jesse McKay and M. T. Sigrest. This is the same church organization that is now at Hillsboro. He did not take license to preach until 1840, although he felt the call to preach long before, and had been an exhorter for many years. Some time after he became a preacher he withdrew from the Methodist Episcopal Church and united with the Methodist Protestant Church. Here he was in the itinerant ranks and active service until age and declining health compelled his superannuation. He filled a great many appointments from the Conference, his labors being confined principally to Scott county; for here he had a home, and before the late war between the States was in good circumstances. He came back to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, by the union of the Mississippi Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church with this Conference, in 1871. He had been troubled with a cancer on his face for thirty years, which for several years past so affected his eyes that he could not read. Near the close of his life his sufferings were great, both from the pain and offensiveness of his cancer, which he endured with Christian fortitude and resignation. He died December 24, 1876, in the eighty-second year of his age, at his residence, four miles north-west of Hillsboro, Mississippi. Brother McKay lost his wife in 1862, and was married again in 1865 to Mrs. Ellen Baker. There was no heir by the first marriage, and only one by the second, a son—in his twelfth year when his father died. Brother McKay was noted for his hospitality, neatness of his person, extreme temperance in all things, generosity to the widows and orphans who lived around him, and besides he brought up, in part or entirely, eleven orphan children; but the best of all was his consistent Christian life and triumphant death. For about seventy years as a Christian soldier—so far as we know—there was not a blot on his fair name. He was happy to overflowing two months before he died, and on his death-bed religion was almost his only theme of conversation. He was perfectly conscious to the last moments, and left precious parting words for his family and friends.

CALVIN C. WATKINS was born in Jefferson county, Mississippi, September 8, 1821, and died of pneumonia, at his residence, near the place of his birth, on Sunday morning, May 13, 1877. Brother Watkins was converted and received into the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1839. Early in life he was licensed to exhort, and became useful in that capacity. He was licensed to preach in 1866, ordained a deacon in 1870, and admitted on trial in the Mississippi Conference in the latter part of the year 1872. He performed four years' effective service in the traveling connection as follows: 1873-74 on the St. Helena Circuit, 1875 on the Bayou Sara Circuit, and 1876 on the Meadville Circuit. At our last annual Conference he was granted a supernumerary relation on account of his declining health. Brother Watkins was a preacher of fair abilities—able in prayer, gifted in song, sympathetic in his nature, true in his friendships, and earnest in his zeal for the Church. He was a useful minister of Christ, and died in great peace. His last words were, "All is well."

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed. The name of V. H. Nelson was erased from the roll at his own request.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? William McKendree Newland, Edward Mellville Mann, Thomas Demoss. 3.

WILLIAM MCKENDREE NEWLAND died in the city of Glasgow, Missouri, October 31, 1876, aged forty-eight years. Brother N. was a native of Tennessee, but when four years of age he came with his parents to Missouri, and settled in Pike county. He was converted and joined the Church under the ministry of Rev. Daniel Penny in 1851. One year later he received license to exhort from the same minister. If the life of a minister of the gospel had been marked by no other important event than the conversion of such a man as Brother Newland, that life would be grand in results and rich in honor. One year later and he received license to preach from Rev. E. M. Marvin, and on September 28th of the same year he entered the Missouri Conference at its session in Palmyra. This was September, 1853, so that at the time of his death he had been a traveling preacher for twenty-three years. As a man his most marked characteristics were his eminent purity, perfect sincerity, and honesty of purpose. He was one of the best, one of the truest of men. No man was ever long in doubt as to his position on any great question of interest to the Church of Christ, and with his fine fund of good common sense, he was very seldom wrong on such questions, and never failed to let his views be known in a firm, manly expression. Being very timid and distrustful of himself, he was often discouraged, yet when principle was involved, he was as unmoving as a rock. As a preacher he was clear, strong, forcible, and earnest, delighting most to dwell upon the great cardinal doctrines of the gospel. In almost any sermon of his there was enough of gospel truth to save any man who would take heed thereto. Any work given to him would be faithfully done. He was in earnest to save souls. But his work is done. His place is vacant. When a good man dies, the Church and the world grow poorer—a high moral force is lost; a light gone out; many prospects blighted and hopes deferred. The loss of such a man is truly a great affliction. Brother Newland's last illness was that stupefying disease, typhoid fever. It creeps on slowly, quenching one light after another till the mental vision is shrouded in rayless midnight. In consequence of this fact, there lingered upon the pale lips no last farewells, no whispered words of comfort and cheer to weeping ones left alone in the world. There were no reflected glances of triumph from the dying victor's eye. It was all an unbroken scene of Death's triumphs. Man's mortality never seemed more complete or humiliating than here. But in the light of a life so pure and consistent, no doubt can linger that after all it is but a little darker gate-way to that all-radiant home of the just, where the pure in heart see God forever; and when we think of the happy reunion beyond, we could almost wish to join him. Has he not met the grand heroes gone from our midst in other years? He was buried in the Glasgow cemetery. This seemed eminently right—just where his last work was done, fresh from his toil in his last field of labor, he lies there to wait his coming Master. In our wanderings over the itinerant field, we have scattered our dead all along our pathway. We lay them down and rise with eyes blind with tears of sorrow, and move on to other fields of conflict. By and by our pilgrimage will end, and we want to rest just there till called to meet our Lord in the air. It may be far from the home of childhood and the graves of the loved ones, but it will be where we have fallen at the post of duty, and it is a sublime place to await the last day.

EDWARD MELLVILLE MANN died at the home of his parents in Keytesville, Missouri, April 2, 1877. Brother Mann was thirty years of age. He professed faith at a meeting held in Chariton county in 1867, and was licensed to preach the gospel in 1870. Brother Mann joined the Missouri Conference at Palmyra, September 19, 1871. His last disease was consumption of the lungs, and in great suffering he passed to his home and reward above. Brother Mann has been called away in the morning of life, before his sun had risen to the high meridian of mature manhood. He had been preaching only about seven years, but these were years of fruitful labor, and especially rich in promise. He was a man of fine intellectual endowment, and of a cultured mind. His piety was consistent, developing into practical obedience to all the duties of a Christian and ministerial life; and perhaps no young man in the Conference bid fairer to develop into wide usefulness in the ministry. His brother writes: "From the time of his first attack he seems to have had an apprehension of being finally disabled from preaching, if not of an early death. His worst fears were soon realized, and he often said the only regret was at his not being able to prosecute his ministerial labors. He said an early death would not be so much regretted but from the fact of his being thus denied the privilege of preaching. On the day before his death he called his friends about him and joined in singing,

Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.

After they had closed, he requested that they should repeat that part of the hymn,

In my hand no price I bring,
Simply to thy cross I cling."

This was a very characteristic act of our departed brother, for in all life's experience he never seemed to forget that all his hopes of heaven rested alone on the merits of the blood of the Son of God. His life was short, his ministerial labors brief, but in the close of such a life we have all to encourage us to continued fidelity till we are also called from labor to the rewards of the good.

THOMAS DEMOSS was born in Bracken county, Kentucky, May 5, 1813, and died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. M. F. Dawson, Monroe City, Missouri, November 22, 1876, at ten minutes before 2 o'clock P.M. He was in his sixty-fourth year. Previous to his last illness he had enjoyed good health, with the exception that for some years past he had suffered from an affection of the kidneys, with other complications of disease, a return of which terminated his life suddenly, as he was sick only three days and a half. He was one of the cavaliers of Methodism in Kentucky, and spent the early part of his life in the service of the Master in that State, witnessing many gracious revivals and conversions under his ministry. He was converted in his fourteenth year, and licensed as an exhorter in his eighteenth, was licensed to preach in 1835, and joined the Kentucky Conference in 1836. Nineteen years of his manhood were spent in that State, and his name, as that of a faithful itinerant minister, is yet remembered and loved, and is now recorded with the historic memories of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Kentucky. He removed to Missouri in 1855, and the year following joined the Missouri Conference, of which he was a member at the time of his death. He received deacon's and elder's orders at the hands of Bishop Beverly Waugh. Thomas DeMoss needs no eulogy; he was recognized by all who knew him as an honorable man and a true-hearted Christian. He was a lover of good men, and was loved in return; amiable, kind, and courteous, he won the hearts of many; and with unselfishness, characteristic of the man, labored for the good of all. Forty-three years of untiring labor in this work has made for him an imperishable monument, and has placed his name on the roll with those who have washed their robes in the blood of the Lamb, and through faith and patience have gone up to possess a crown and a kingdom. As he lived well, so he died well; he was not surprised nor alarmed, but with great joy and peace trusted his Saviour through the dark valley and the deep waters. We saw his sun go down, not in the darkness and cloud, but as the bright morning-star that melts away in the light of heaven. What an experience it is to die—what revelations await the humble, faithful child of God beyond this vale of tears—we must die to know. But as it is written, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." His dying message to the members of the Missouri Conference was, "Tell them to preach Jesus, preach Jesus, preach Jesus and the resurrection."

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Dawson Phelps, Sion L. Hill. 2.

DAWSON PHELPS was born in Tyrrel county, North Carolina, March 14, 1806. Early in life he became a Christian and joined the Methodist Church, and before he was twenty years old received license as an exhorter, and some time after license to preach. He did regular preaching one year on a circuit in North Carolina, by direction of his presiding elder. We are not informed as to what year he removed to Alabama, but in 1834 he was admitted on trial into the Tennessee Conference, in which he did faithful work till 1850, when, at his own request, he was granted a location. He continued in the local ranks for twenty-one years, but during that time he preached much and was very useful. In 1871 he was readmitted into the traveling connection in the North Alabama Conference, and for five years did full and useful work. In 1876 he was appointed in charge of the Pettusville Circuit, in the bounds of which his home had been for many years. He was only able to preach a few sermons after Conference till he went home for the last time; and though he lingered several months, the grace of God sustained him to the last. At times he expressed a great desire to get well again, that he might continue longer to preach. His physician told him that he thought he would probably get up again, but would never be able to preach any more. He said that if he could not recover sufficiently to be able to preach he had rather die and go to heaven. A few weeks before his death he said: "Fifty-two years ago to-day I was licensed to exhort, and if I could live that much longer I would spend it all preaching the same doctrines I have preached." He often said that he had no fears of death—was fully prepared and waiting for the summons. For four days before his death he seemed to be entirely unconscious, and on September 4, 1877, he ceased to suffer, and was not, for God took him. He was a very strong doctrinal preacher, and very pious and useful, so that many no doubt through his instrumentality were brought to Christ.

SION L. HILL died on his work, the Atalla Circuit. He had been reappointed to this circuit, which he had served the preceding year, although he was not in attendance at our last session on account of declining health. The fangs of disease had fastened upon his lungs, and with a slow and steady decline he passed away. He was visited during his sickness by the Rev. T. Moody, who also attended at his funeral. Brother Hill had been but a short time connected with the Conference, having been a minister in the Baptist Church for several years preceding his admission to our body. His death was peaceful and happy, and he added the testimony of his dying words to the influence of his life. He was about twenty-seven years of age. He left a wife and several young children, who are entitled to the care and sympathy of the Church.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed, except that of M. T. Leach, who withdrew from the Church.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Eugene W. Thompson. 1.

EUGENE W. THOMPSON, an honored member of the North Carolina Conference, died in the town of Morganton, N. C., a few minutes before one o'clock Thursday morning, April 5, 1877, in the prime of a beautiful and noble manhood. He was born in Kershaw county, South Carolina, in the year 1833. His education was received at Canden, Columbia, and Cokesbury, S. C. At the last-named place he spent two years under the instruction of the Rev. George H. Round, now of Lenoir, N. C. He was converted to God under the ministry of the Rev. H. C. Parsons, of the South Carolina Conference, and was licensed to preach, and joined the South Carolina Conference, in 1854, with F. Milton Kennedy, now editor of the Southern Christian Advocate; Jesse S. Nelson, presiding elder of Fayetteville District; Samuel B. Jones, Landy Wood, A. A. Connelly, and others, and was appointed to Wadesboro Circuit as junior preacher with the Rev. Sidi H. Browne. The next year he was sent to Spartanburg Circuit with the Rev. Daniel May. The next two years he was pastor of Shelby Circuit. At the close of his last year on Shelby Circuit he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Lowe, daughter of Sheriff Isaac Lowe, of Lincoln county, North Carolina. She, with one son, survives him. Her bereavement is that of the Church; but no doubt she suffers the keenest pangs of grief, and our sympathies and prayers are most enlisted for the greatest sufferer. The year after his marriage he was sent to Lincoln Circuit. The next two years he served Concord Circuit. In 1862 he was sent to Cheraw Station, South Carolina, where he remained until the autumn of that year, when he joined the Army of Northern Virginia, under Gen. Lee, as chaplain, where he remained until the close of the war. After the war, he served Wadesboro Circuit four years, and was then sent to Tryon Street Church, Charlotte, where he remained one year. While he was stationed in Charlotte the territory in Western North Carolina belonging to the South Carolina Conference was transferred to the North Carolina Conference, and he was transferred with it. At the session of the Conference held at Greensboro he was made presiding elder of Shelby District. He remained two years on the district, but the work was considered too heavy for him, on account of a throat-affection from which he was suffering at the time, and, to the regret of the entire Church in the bounds of the district, he was sent to Fayetteville, where he remained four years. His failing health compelled him to have an assistant during the last year of his stay at Fayetteville; but growing weaker every day, he thought it best at the close of his last year there to take a superannuated relation to the Conference, and came to Morganton, hoping that the dry atmosphere and bracing air of this mountain clime would restore his health; but alas! that fell destroyer, pulmonary consumption, had already laid its icy hands upon him and marked him for its own, and the powers of life gradually gave way before it until the Master said, "Come up higher." For twenty-three years Brother Thompson was a standard-bearer for Christ, and during that period his character, both private and official, was unstained by a single blot. Of commanding presence and deportment, he was, wherever seen, a model specimen of the dignified Christian minister. The purity and consistency of his private life imparted a momentum to his pulpit ministrations which secured for him a distinguished measure of success in winning souls to Christ. He was a charming preacher. We have heard him when the consolations of the gospel fell from his lips as honey from the rock, and the message of salvation came down and soothed the brow of care like an angel's wing. The pathos of his sympathy, O how touching and tender! beneath its magic charm sorrow bloomed and tears were turned to gladness. "But the harp is broken, and its music is gone," the pleasant voice is hushed, the congregations of earth will listen to him never again, the pulpit will know him no more forever. "Called and chosen and faithful." He has been summoned from among us, and his name passes from the roll of the Conference, but his memory will linger with his brethren as an inspiration and incentive to all that is manly and noble and heroic in the Christian ministry. He was very much attached to his congregation in Fayetteville, and the good people of that place, without regard to religious denomination, loved him dearly. When it was seen that his earthly pilgrimage was soon to end, Brother Claywell, of Morganton, asked him if he had a message he would like to send to any one. After thinking a moment, he said: "Yes; I would be glad if you send word to my congregation in Fayetteville that when the last struggle came I was ready." And after a moment he said, "I would be glad to go now." Several days before his death he was asked how he felt in view of the dissolution which he saw and felt was approaching rapidly, and he said he would like to live. "I feel sad to think of leaving my wife and only son and all of my friends," said he. "I would be pleased, if it were God's will, to live and preach the gospel; but it is all right. Please say to my brethren in the Conference that at the Master's last call I was ready." In the history of Brother Thompson there is no vice to deplore, and while he may have had faults, still a world of such men would make earth very much like heaven. Alive, he was a demonstration of Christianity; being dead, he yet speaketh, proclaiming to all that God is faithful. God be praised for such a life and for such a death!

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

BENJAMIN WHITE STUBBS was born October 22, 1832, in Milledgeville, Ga. His parents removed to Mississippi when he was quite a boy, and in 1854 he was converted to God at a protracted meeting conducted by the Rev. R. D. Wear, of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, at Carrollville, Miss. Soon after his conversion, he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and though then impressed with the duty of preaching the gospel, it was not till several years later, at the bedside of a dying mother, that he resolved to take up the cross. In the fall of 1857 he joined the Memphis Conference; was ordained deacon by Bishop Andrew, November 20, 1859; and ordained elder by Bishop Paine, at Jackson, Tenn., November 10, 1861. He traveled respectively the following circuits: 1858, Holly Springs; 1859, Byhalia; 1860-1, Hickory Flat; 1862, Salem; 1863, Ripley. In 1864 he was appointed to the Panola Circuit, and in due time he was at his post; but owing to the war, he was advised by the official members not to attempt to fill the work. Consequently, he went to his home, and was in 1865 returned to the Ripley Circuit; 1866-9, he traveled the Baldwyn Circuit, and the Saltillo Circuit in 1870; 1871-2, Marietta Circuit; 1874-5, Baldwyn; 1876, New Albany. At the Conference of 1876 he was appointed to the Ripley Circuit, which he traveled until July 21, when, on his way to an appointment, he was crushed to death by a falling tree. His life was pure and stainless, and his character was stamped with the fadeless truths he preached to the world. He possessed a warm, generous heart; cheerful, but not light; social, but always wearing a quiet dignity. He mingled with men of all denominations and with those of no ecclesiastical ties, never forgetting the sacredness of his office or the gravity of his mission. He was a sympathizing friend, often adding to his own burden the sorrows of others; yet he bore his trials with an unclouded brow; and though his appointments were sometimes regarded as an affliction, he never faltered in the discharge of duty. He carried his religion in every relation of life, chastening his conversation, regulating his business, and inspiring his devotions. In the pulpit his manner was simple, unstudied, and natural. His discourses were not easily or soon forgotten, the train of thought remaining in the mind of the hearer long after the voice of the speaker had died on the ear. Our beloved brother fell at his post, not slumbering on his armor, a warrior with sword in hand ready for the fight. He was deeply impressed that the shadow of death rested upon his near future. Some time before the reaper came with his sickle, he remarked to his presiding elder that he had received his last appointment from the Conference, stating at the same time that he had not the remotest idea of locating; but a vague feeling prompted him thus to express himself. In the Church none will be more missed than he; in the Conference he will answer to his name no more, but that name is enrolled on high. His work is done. We yield his pure and gentle spirit back to God who gave it, in the blissful hope of the resurrection morn.

JAMES A. BABB, son of Matthew J. and Sarah J. Babb, was born in Tishomingo (now Alcorn) county, Mississippi, May 4, 1848. He received from his parents a careful religious training, and professed religion in the autumn of 1865. He was licensed to preach in 1873; and served the Jonestown Circuit as a supply during the year 1874. In the autumn of that year he was received on trial into the North Mississippi Conference, and appointed to the circuit supplied by him the previous year. These were years of prosperity to the Church in that circuit. In the autumn of 1875 he was sent to Boonville and Rienzi, where his labors were owned of God and blessed with a gracious revival of religion. At the session of Conference held at Sardis, Miss., November, 1876, he was ordained a deacon, and appointed to West Point and Tibbee. He entered upon his work in this charge in the spirit and power of his Master, and in a few weeks the buddings of a powerful work of grace were visible. He began a meeting at West Point early in March, which continued until July. Many precious souls were converted at this meeting and added to the Church. In July he began a meeting at Tibbee, which continued three weeks, and resulted in a gracious revival. At the close of this meeting he was so worn and weary in body that rest was imperative, and he took a short respite from labor. He was married on the 30th of August, 1877, to Miss Mary Morrison, of Kossuth, Miss. On his return, after his marriage, the people of his charge gave to him and his bride an appropriate and cordial reception. In the latter part of September he went with his wife to spend a few days with the family of the Rev. R. G. Porter, at the district parsonage in Brooksville. Here disease, which was already making unsuspected ravages upon his constitution, until recently so vigorous and strong, progressed rapidly; and on Tuesday, October 2d, he closed his brief but successful career. When informed that death was at hand, though greatly desiring to live, that he might do more work for God, he expressed himself ready for the change. As he went down into the dark valley, and the promises of God were repeated to him again and again, he would reply in words like these: "How sweet that is—it is so comforting!" "I know that is true!" "Thanks be unto God, that giveth us the victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ!" Brother Babb was a preacher of more than ordinary ability and promise. He was always fervent, earnest, and edifying. His manner was wonderfully persuasive. He excelled in pastoral work, visiting from house to house with words of admonition and consolation, as might be needed. His nature was ardent and loving. He was a true man and a faithful friend. His career was brief but very useful; he had already accomplished much for the glory of God. He was in a state of delirium during the last hours of his life; and though oblivious to all earthly concerns, yet his mental power responded intelligently whenever these precious promises were spoken in his hearing. His last words were: "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all." With this apostolic benediction, though spoken in a state of mind which rendered him unconscious of all else but Christ and his work, he dismissed the congregations of the Church militant, and went up to join the Church triumphant.

WILLIAM L. BONNER was born May 1, 1814; and died at his home in Water Valley, Miss., September 18, 1877. Brother Bonner was converted to God when about the age of eighteen years. A few years after he was licensed as a local preacher, and in 1838 he was received on trial in the Tennessee Conference. In 1840 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Andrew, at Jackson, Tenn. In 1842 he was ordained an elder by the same Bishop, at Holly Springs, Miss. For many years Brother Bonner was an active, useful, and acceptable member of the Memphis Conference, serving as pastor of Jackson, Marshall, Pontotoc, Fulton, Houston, Oxford, and other circuits in North Mississippi and West Tennessee. Some years ago, and for cause satisfactory to his own conscience, Brother Bonner became local; but in 1870 the North Mississippi Conference, prompted by love and sympathy, and in view of his past usefulness, readmitted him, only that we might take care of him and his devoted wife in their old age. For thirteen years he was a great sufferer, having been stricken with paralysis, which for seven years rendered him almost, if not entirely, helpless. But God gave him a kind and faithful wife, who with her children patiently cared for the uncomplaining invalid. To sum up the virtues and graces of this holy man of God, we may truthfully say he was a faithful laborer, a sound, strong, clear preacher, and a sweet-spirited Christian. Everywhere he went the people took knowledge of him that he had been with Jesus. Jesus and the resurrection were the central ideas of all his sermons. He studied the character of Jesus, preached his word, and lived a life of faith before his congregations; hence the many seals to his ministry and the stars in his crown. His last hours on earth were peaceful, triumphant, glorious. He selected the text and hymns to be used at his funeral; asked his friends to sing "How firm a foundation," and "I would not live always;" consoled his weeping wife, and then fell asleep in the arms of Jesus. His last words were: "I have long been ready for my Master's call, and all is calm; mine will be a happy exchange." Thus died the true and faithful man of God.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 18. Who are superannuated? James Peeler, Joseph P. Sneed, R. Crawford, C. N. McGuire, James M. Johnson, M. Yell, Drury Womack, J. P. Stanfield, Samuel D. Aikin. 9.

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? R. W. Flournoy, John E. Aikin. 2.

R. W. FLOURNOY was born in Louisville, Ga., in 1828; and died at the residence of his brother, Col. W. M. Flournoy, in Waco, Texas, April 9, 1877, of bronchitis, in the forty-ninth year of his age. He professed religion and joined the Church in his eighteenth year. He was twice married—first, in his nineteenth year, to Mrs. Sykes, of Albany, Ga.; second, October 18, 1860, to Miss Sarah Campbell, who, with one daughter by his first wife, survives him, to mourn his loss. He was licensed to preach when twenty-four years old, and admitted on trial into the Florida Conference in 1859, and was appointed to the Quitman Circuit, which he traveled two years. In 1861 he was sent to Cammiller; in 1862-3, to Oak Mulgay; in 1864, to Madison; in 1865, to Valdosta; in 1866, to Springfield Circuit. At the division of the Conference he fell to the South Georgia Conference. In 1867 he was returned to the Springfield Circuit. In 1868 he was sent to Morgan Circuit; in 1869-70, to Jeffersonville; in 1871, to Louisville; in 1872, to Bethel. In 1873 he was transferred to the Louisiana Conference, and was appointed to the Haynesville Circuit, which he traveled two years. In 1875 he was transferred to the North-west Texas Conference, and was appointed to the Gatesville Circuit; in 1876-7, to the Leon Circuit. Here his work was finished, the Master bid him put up his sword and lay his armor by, and enter upon that life "where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest." Brother Flournoy was a good preacher, a zealous Christian, a faithful pastor, and a true friend. His fidelity to his friends and the Church was a peculiar characteristic in his history. He suffered much and long, but he endured like a veteran soldier. No murmurs were heard; and when the final moment came, although sudden and somewhat unexpected by his friends, he calmly and joyfully met it, for the last words from his lips were, "Blessed Jesus!" This last sentiment is just in harmony with that verse from Mr. Wesley:

I'll speak the honors of thy name
With my last lab'ring breath;
Then speechless grasp thee in my arms,
The antidote of death.

JOHN E. AIKIN was born in Kentucky. The date of his birth we have not been able to ascertain. He died in Fort Worth, in the care of Brother M. D. Fly. He was the son of Brother S. D. Aikin, of this Conference. We have no data as to the time of his conversion or when he joined the Church. He was received on trial in the North-west Texas Conference in 1875, and was sent to the Centerville Circuit, where he did a faithful year's work. He was then appointed to the Springtown Circuit, where he closed his labors. Brother Aikin was a man of strong mind and good culture, and a good preacher of his age. While we mourn the loss of our young brother, taken from us so early and so full of promise, we bow in submission to the will of God, who is too wise to err. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved father and family.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

THOMAS SUMTER DANIEL was born in Edgefield county, South Carolina, in the year 1814; and died in Abbeville county, South Carolina, August 27, 1877. He was educated at Cokesbury Conference School, and in February, 1835, entered the traveling connection of the South Carolina Conference, in the twenty-first year of his age. His first appointment was on the Montgomery Circuit, North Carolina, which he traveled in connection with the venerable David Derrick. His ministerial services embraced a period of forty-two years, two of which were spent on stations, twenty-three on circuits, five on missions, ten in the local ranks, one as supernumerary, and one as superannuate. He was a man of sterling character, conspicuous for his stern integrity and his exact promptitude. His mental endowments were above the ordinary, but his extreme reticence prevented him from being brought forward to positions for which he was otherwise well qualified. He was exceptionally familiar with the doctrines of the Methodist Church, and an able expounder of the same. His preaching, always pointed and evangelical, was at times in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. His reading was of a wide range, and perhaps nothing would be risked in the statement that at the time of his death he was one of the best read members of this body. The tenderness of his nature was beautifully exhibited in the unceasing attention with which he ministered to the comfort of an aged mother. It has been said that a Methodist preacher ought always to be ready to preach and to die. It seems that Brother Daniel was ready for either of these. He fell suddenly, but at his post. He was laboring at a protracted meeting in Laurens county. Preached on Sabbath afternoon with unwonted power. Left the church Monday morning cheerful and happy, but had scarcely reached the house when he was smitten with sun-stroke, and in thirty minutes his spirit had departed. No one was present except his old servant, who tells us that he passed away shouting the triumphs of the Lord Jesus Christ. His remains were interred, by request, at Salem Church, Greenwood Circuit, beside the ashes of his sainted mother, who had not long preceded him to the spirit land. A pious man, an affectionate son, a modest, faithful herald of the cross of Christ, has fallen from our ranks. We cannot but mourn our loss, yet our grief is chastened by the remembrance that it is his eternal gain.

His toils are past, his work is done,
And he is fully blessed;
He fought the fight, the victory won,
And entered into rest.

WILLIAM HONOUR FLEMING, D.D., was born January 1, 1821, in the city of Charleston, S. C.; and died April 16, 1877. He was converted to God, and connected himself with the Methodist Church, in early life. In 1841 he was admitted into the South Carolina Conference, and after thirty-six years in the itinerant ministry, while stationed at Bethel, in the city of Charleston, and in the very room where he had been licensed to preach, he contracted the disease which, superadded to an overworked nervous condition, terminated his life. Brother Fleming was practically acquainted with every kind of work that usually devolved upon a Methodist traveling preacher. For six years he served as a missionary to the colored people in the low country of South Carolina; eight years were spent in circuits, seven in stations, and fourteen in districts. Three times he was chosen by his brethren as a delegate to the General Conference, and was a member of the General Mission Board at the time of his death. In all these relations he was acceptable and useful; his experience was large, his judgment clear; his counsel was judicious and safe. In disposition he was kind and benevolent; his genial nature won all hearts, both old and young, while his manly, frank, and honorable conduct secured respect and confidence. His sermons were prepared with care, and if not brilliant, they were evangelical and instructive, and his congregations retired with the conviction that they had been listening to a thoughtful and earnest minister of Jesus Christ. His body lies in Bethel church-yard, beneath a unique and beautiful monument, contributed by his affectionate congregation; while his spirit realizes the sentiment uttered with nearly his last breath: "How nice it will be when we meet up there!"

RUFUS RANDOLPH PEGUES was born in Marlboro, S. C., February 6, 1830. His ancestors were an industrious and thrifty race, who had been identified with that section of the State from its earliest settlement. His own father was, like Cornelius, "a devout man, and one that feared God, with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always." Our sainted brother was brought up in the midst of the most benign influences of our holy religion, having the good example of his pious parents ever before his eyes. He came into the Church in early life, and was converted under the ministry of Brother D. J. Simmons, of whom he spoke with great gratitude and affection on his dying-bed. He was graduated at Randolph-Macon College, in Virginia, and soon after his return home entered the Methodist ministry in the South Carolina Conference, in 1855. If our dear departed friend had been ambitious of ease, honor, or worldly success, he would have turned his attention elsewhere. Indeed, he had all the elements of success—a solid, practical mind, a good education, a fine person, agreeable manners, and a comfortable fortune; yet when he was satisfied that God had called him to the work of the holy ministry, he was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, but gave himself up to the work with a single purpose to glorify God and save souls. He was connected with this body of ministers for twenty-two years, and took his appointments everywhere in our territory, from the mountains to the sea. No man among us has ever sustained a more unsullied reputation. Such was the purity of his life, and such the unselfish devotion of his time, talents, and property to the great work of human salvation, that he possessed the unbounded confidence and respect of all classes of the people where he labored. In humility, in modesty, in generosity, in benevolence, who of us is like him? The beautiful devotion of our departed brother's life to the cause of God reminds us of the words of the seraphic Thomas Walsh, in the days of Mr. Wesley: "Thou knowest, O Lord, that there never was one of thy servants upon earth whom I do not desire to resemble in doing and suffering thy whole will. I would walk with thee, my God, as Enoch did; I would follow thee into an unknown country, as Abraham did; and I would give up all for thee, as did Moses and Paul." For seventeen years our departed brother answered to the roll-call in this body of ministers; but five years ago, in the midst of laborious evangelistic efforts in the town of Marion, his powerful frame suddenly gave way, and had fastened upon it an incurable disease which baffled and defied all the skill of the healing art. Hitherto our dear friend had found his religion a powerful stimulus to action and a beautiful embellishment of life. Now he had to test its power to support him in the midst of affliction, and finally in the agonies of death. He was not disappointed. We found him calm, collected, and peaceful. He commissioned the writer to bear to his brethren the last messages of his undying affection. "When my name is called, tell the brethren I thought of them and prayed for them." On the 17th of October he became worse, and it was evident that the catastrophe had at last come. He was ready, and in the midst of his family and friends fell asleep in Jesus. The beautiful lines of Sir Walter Scott describe the character of this good man:

Far may we search, before we find
A heart so manly and so kind;
But not around his honored urn
Do friends alone and kindred mourn.
The thousand eyes his care had dried
Pour at his name a bitter tide;
And frequent falls the grateful dew
For benefits the world ne'er knew.
If mortal charity dare claim,
Th' Almighty's attributed name,
Then write above his moldering clay,
"The widow's shield, the orphan's stay."

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Alvin J. Dean. 1.

ALVIN JACKSON DEAN was born in De Kalb county, Georgia, February 21, 1831. He joined the Church at Flint Hill camp-meeting, in Gwinnett county, in 1850; was licensed to preach in March, 1853; and was admitted into the Georgia Conference in December, 1854. He served for the first three years as junior preacher on the Sylvania, the Waynesboro, and the Louisville circuits. In 1858 he traveled the Starkesville Circuit and Mission. In 1859 he was stationed in Hawkinsville. During the next four years he traveled consecutively the Pataula, the Butler, the Harris, and the Geneva circuits. From 1864 to 1867, inclusive, he served the Hamilton Circuit. Then for three years he was stationed in Bainbridge; in 1871, at Wesley Chapel, in the city of Columbus; in 1871, in Perry; and for the next four years in Lumpkin. At the last Conference he was again appointed to the Perry Station, from whence, on the 20th of July last, this faithful, patient, sweet-spirited man of God ascended to his bright reward. Brother Dean was the son of pious parents, who sought to train him for Christ and the Church. His childhood was spent in the atmosphere of a truly religious household. He was often heard to say, as he related his Christian experience, that he could not remember when he was not religiously inclined. As he grew toward manhood under these gracious influences, those lovable traits of character with which he was by nature so richly endowed had added to them the bloom and fragrance which grace only can supply. A call from God into the Christian ministry perhaps never imposed harder requirements than in the case of our departed brother. The agony of the struggle through which he had to pass when called from the retirement so suited to his disposition, and thrust out into public life, may well be imagined when we consider the diffidence of nature which characterized him even in his later years. In the estimation of his friends, many of those very traits of character which made him so generally beloved, when viewed with reference to the duties of the ministry, seemed to preclude all hope of his success, and they sought to influence him to abandon the effort. One who knew him intimately during that period, and had discovered the many good and valuable qualities which he possessed, informs us that so excessive was his self-depreciation, and from this cause so little of promise did there appear of his usefulness, that it was with difficulty that he obtained license to preach; that his first efforts were entire failures; that the Conference reluctantly received him upon trial; and that the report from his first field of labor was discouraging. But his was the spirit which enabled the martyrs to endure all things for Christ's sake. And there were in him, by the grace of God, such thoughts of religious principle and such energy of religious purpose that his life became after all a glorious success, and his infirmities as though they were not, except by their chastening influence developing more and more that meekness and gentleness of spirit which so greatly distinguished him. While he was with us so gently did the currents of his life seem to flow along, so patiently and uncomplainingly did he endure, that many did not suspect the severe experiences through which his character was being ripened for the company of the pure in heart who see the face of God. Brother Dean was a man of superior intellectual endowments. Though his native powers were obscured, especially in the earlier years of his ministry, by the serious constitutional defects already alluded to, and burdened though he was by life-long infirmities of the body, he became a preacher of fine abilities, clear and forcible in thought and style, and strong in word and doctrine to convince the judgment and move the conscience. He was always a patient and laborious student, and his sermons gave evidence of thorough preparation. But it was not mere intellectual superiority, but the completeness and maturity of his own religious character, which gave weight to his ministry, and opened to him the door to usefulness. He had the true unction, without which talents are vain—the spirit of the Master rested upon him, and breathed in all his ministrations in public and in private. He was deeply pious, “a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith.” There was so little of display in his modest career that it is possible that some may have failed to estimate his real worth to the Church and to the cause of Christ. But the leaven of such a character is the true power which is building up the kingdom of God among men here, through the spirit of God; is the salt of the earth and the light of the world. Brother Dean had few superiors as a pastor. He possessed a rare fitness for the peculiar duties of that office; it was there especially that he so strikingly illustrated the power there is for good in the gentler graces of the Christian character. That he possessed all the necessary sterner qualities, we cannot doubt, in view of the struggles and triumphs of his life; but with these there were blended such meekness and humility, such an absence of self, and such sincerity of sympathy in the joys and sorrows and for the welfare of his people, that he readily won their affections and their confidence; and by the rich experiences of his own inner life he knew well how to minister to their spiritual wants. But his pure and gentle spirit has done with both the rough encounters in the world and the fruitful labors in the Master's vineyard. In the summer of last year, while preaching in Lumpkin, he was stricken down in the pulpit with partial paralysis of the brain. A more serious attack, under similar circumstances, early in July of this year, proved his final summons from the field of earthly suffering and toil. He lingered for nearly two weeks, resigned and patient, as he had been in all the events of life, and then peacefully passed away. The life so marked with spiritual conflicts, and yet so full of peace, so noble for its triumphs, and yet so humble, so fruitful of blessings to men, so rich in the praise of redeeming grace, so holy an offering to God, has ended in its full reward.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? A. F. Lawrence. 1.

ABRAHAM FRANKLIN LAWRENCE, son of Jesse and Ann L. Lawrence, was born in Marshall county, Tennessee, September 19, 1824. He was converted when young, and early impressed that his great life-work was to preach the gospel. He joined the Tennessee Conference in October, 1848, and was sent, with the Rev. J. R. McClure, to the Rock Creek Circuit, the home of his childhood. His memory is yet very precious to the people of his first charge. There, as in his different fields of labor, he was an efficient and useful man. In 1849-50 he was in charge of the Russell Valley Circuit, North Alabama; then stationed for two years at Lowerville (now Maysville), Ala., after which he was at Sparta and Franklin stations, in Tennessee, one year each. Then for two years he was stationed in Gallatin. The three years following he was presiding elder on the Centerville District; Agent of the Book and Tract Society in 1859-60; stationed in Athens, Ala., next for two years; then sent to Pulaski Station. In 1865-6 he filled the Cenersville Station, and the year following the Spring Hill Station. Then for two years he was in charge of the Harpeth Circuit, and then stationed at Harpeth one year. Next he was on the Bethesda Circuit for the full term of four years; then one year on the Spring Hill Circuit, from which he went to Fayetteville Station. His last appointment was the Wesley Circuit. He married Miss Maggie Rozell in October, 1860, who died in September, 1867, leaving two little boys, Frank and Magnus. In October, 1869, he was married to Miss Pollie Pope, who died in less than two years, and left a little daughter. He was married to Miss Ann Bell Marshall February 7, 1871. She, with her little daughter and his other three children, yet survives him. For a number of years Brother Lawrence was among the most acceptable and useful members of our Conference. He was specially gifted for successful work in the Lord's vineyard. Genial and social in spirit, he won the hearts of his people at their homes. An acceptable preacher, and gifted in song, he excelled in conducting revivals, which often blessed his faithful labors in protracted meetings. He possessed a peculiar magnetism, which drew about him warm hearts, whose friendship never failed him in the greatest trials of his last years. Sister Lawrence writes: "He was the kindest of husbands—so devoted, so sympathetic, so gentle, always ready to soothe and encourage those he loved. Duty often called him away from home; but he loved his home, and was glad to be much with his family. He was acquainted with sorrow, grief, affliction, and disappointment. Once he went to Conference with the purpose of locating, but was always glad afterward that he did not do so. He came from the last Conference well pleased with his appointment, with bright prospects before him, anticipating a pleasant year." But his work was well-nigh done. While preaching at Greenwood, on Sunday, December 17, he was taken sick—broke down during his sermon; was compelled to rest; reached his new home on the circuit with difficulty, and was taken down with pneumonia, and later was partially paralyzed. He had suffered for some years with disease of the heart. For twenty-nine days he suffered much, but his patience and faith never faltered. She who was with him during his last years of great trial writes: "He talked about dying a great deal. He was anxious to depart and be with Christ." One of the brethren who attended his funeral wrote: "From the beginning he did not think he should get well; spoke calmly of his decease; said he was willing to die, but regretted leaving his family. Again said he was only waiting for death." He greatly desired to see some of his brethren of the Tennessee Conference before his departure, mentioning specially one on an adjoining work; but owing to the deep snow, his dying wish was not communicated to his brethren until he had quietly fallen asleep in Jesus, on January 16, 1877. His remains rest in the cemetery at Franklin, near where he lived and labored much in the vineyard of the Master. He leaves a widow and four children, who realize deeply their great loss, and claim a large share of the sympathies of this Conference.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Alexander Doniphan, David F. Hodges, James A. Duncan. 3.

ALEXANDER DONIPHAN was born in Fredericksburg, Va., July, 1820. In the spring of 1840 he was born again in the town of Lynchburg, Va., during a protracted meeting which was conducted in the Methodist Protestant Church at that place. It was six months after his conversion that he determined, under the moving of the Holy Spirit, to devote himself to the work of the Christian ministry. With this purpose in view, he spent two years at a classical and theological school in Maryland, under the management of the Rev. Francis Watters, D.D. In the spring of 1843, having left school, and being licensed to preach, he was employed by the President of the Virginia Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, and appointed to Hampton and Fox Hill Circuit. On this work he made proof of his ministry, giving evidence of a divine call. Though he spent but one year on this circuit, his name was a household word, and he never lost his hold on the affections of that people. In 1843 he was admitted into the traveling connection of the Virginia Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, and appointed to the Smithfield Circuit. On this work he spent two years of most successful effort. He was abundant in labors and excessive in zeal. His youthful ardor, by the grace of God, consecrated his time and talents fully to his calling, and he spared not himself day nor night in his efforts to do good; and his labors on this field were crowned with great results. There were gracious revivals all over the circuit, and many were added to the Church, among them some of the most prominent citizens of Isle of Wight and Nansemond counties. The fruits of his labors under God remain to this present time in that section, and the affections of that people for him failed not in all the following years. His fiery zeal consumed his physical strength, so that ere the Conference of 1845 failing health necessitated an abatement of his labors. At the Conference of 1845 he was appointed to Norfolk, and here, in the spring of 1846, his health gave way, and he was forced to retire for a time from active service. After this time it was never thought advisable for him to take work in tide-water Virginia. Therefore his labors were confined for several years to the following charges: Lynchburg Station, Campbell Circuit, and Bedford Circuit; and he was always successful as a preacher and pastor. Much of his time was spent in traveling through the Southern States in the interests of certain educational institutions for which he was an agent, and in which department of service he evidenced an aptitude that kept his talents in requisition until the late war in the States came on. He then settled in Abingdon, Va., and engaged in mercantile pursuits; and it was during this time that he transferred his membership from the Methodist Protestant Church to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Shortly after this transfer of Church-membership he again entered the field as an itinerant preacher, in connection with the Holston Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and after probably four years of active service, failing health caused him again to cease the regular work until his connection with this Conference, in the bounds of which he was filling out his third year when death met him on the Boydton Circuit, of which he had charge, and suddenly removed him, as we believe, from labor to rest. He had a good heart, and was blessed with God-given talents for the work of the ministry. He was possessed of an ardent temperament and a moderately strong body. Dyspepsia was his chronic complaint, and greatly discomfited him; yet he toiled on in the face of these hindrances until called at once to resign his life and work. The deceased belonged to that class of ministers who underrate their gifts and grace. He was afraid of ministerial responsibility, and preferred humble positions in the vineyard of the Lord, though qualified for higher places. He possessed to an unusual degree three qualifications for the work of a Methodist preacher—he was a sweet singer, he was powerful in prayer, and he was gifted in exhortation; and with all this he was a good preacher. Our brother was twice married, but at the time of his death was a widower. He leaves four children, all of whom are educated and provided for. On the 22d of February, 1877, Alexander Doniphian died while sitting in his chair. He was on the eve of starting to visit certain members of his charge, but concluded it would be better to remain at home and rest, as he did not feel well enough to ride; and while a bed was being prepared for him to lie down, he suddenly and quietly passed from earthly associations, aged about fifty-seven years, and, as we believe, prepared to meet his end. How perfectly he realized the desire expressed so often by the founder of Methodism:

O that without one ling'ring groan
I may the welcome word receive;
My body with my charge lay down,
And cease at once to work and live!

DAVID F. HODGES was born in the county of Franklin, Virginia, on the 28th of November, 1837; and died at the parsonage in Whit-mell, Pittsylvania county, on the 2d of May, 1877. He was the son of Solomon and Sarah Hodges, with whom he lived until some time after his conversion, which took place in the summer of 1855, under the ministry of the Rev. James H. Jefferson. We know but little of his early life. Suffice it to say that his advantages for acquiring an education were poor: his parents were in such humble circumstances that he was compelled to rely upon such instruction as they could spare him time to receive in a common country school. Soon after his conversion he felt that he was called to preach the gospel, and he immediately set about preparing himself for the work. He had many difficulties to contend with. The war came on, and he enlisted as a soldier; but his call was never forgotten nor his labors for a moment abated, so that by November, 1867, he made application, and was received on trial into the traveling connection of the Virginia Conference. He not only acquired a good English education, but obtained no mean knowledge of the Latin and Greek languages. Soon after his admission into Conference he was married to Miss Amanda A. Gaulding, of Charlotte county, Va., by whom he had three children, the eldest eight years and the youngest nineteen months old at the time of his death. His first appointment was to Dan River Mission one year; his second, Henry Circuit, two years; his third, Franklin Circuit, four years; his fourth and last, Pittsylvania Circuit, two years and five months of the third. He was wonderfully successful at all of these appointments. He won souls to Jesus wherever he went; and though a minister but little over ten years, his conversions might be numbered by scores and hundreds. No man had more influence over his congregations than Brother Hodges. His preaching was not brilliant, but there was a force and power in it that convinced every one that God was in the man. His life was as pure as his preaching. It was "a living epistle, known and read of all men." Not a stain rests upon his memory. No man that knew David F. Hodges fails to honor his piety. He felt especial interest in the Sunday-school work, and in this department he was strikingly successful, as his Conference reports will abundantly show. In doctrines he was particularly well-informed. He was a student all his life, and could give to every man "an answer for the hope within him." On one occasion he debated for nearly a week with one of the most prominent and learned ministers of another denomination, and all who heard him will testify how well he performed his part—how ably he sustained the doctrines of our Church. He was no bigot, but was devoted to his Church. He loved and honored her doctrines, and every effort of his noble life was exerted for the advancement of her cause. The principle that influenced Brother Hodges entered into every action and motive of his life. He was the same bold, conscientious man everywhere; he consulted no law of loss or profit; he humored no selfish or ambitious pride; he never paused to ask but one question—"Is it right?"

He was possessed of great energy and firmness of character. Rarely did he undertake any thing which he did not accomplish. One who did not know him well might have thought him self-willed, but such was not his disposition, and what seemed like pertinacity in him was but the offspring of a conscientious sense of duty. He was strong and robust. Rarely had he ever been unwell until a few months before his death, when he was attacked with inflammation of the stomach, from which he suffered much, until on the 2d of May he triumphantly passed into the upper fold. He was tender and affectionate in his family, and his cheerful disposition made his home a place of happiness. There were no episodes of his life that we would mark especially, but there was a sweet simplicity about it that rendered it socially, morally, and religiously sublime. No memoir can ever do it justice. There was a beauty in it that, as far transcends the eloquence of description as nature's own paintings surpass the highest imitations of art. His last hours were indeed the sunset of his day. Calm, conscious, and happy, he passed away amid a thousand beams of brightness that lingered o'er his pathway and gave a lovelier sweetness to the life he was closing. His example still lives, and the stream of his influence will ripple on in the valley of many human hearts, fertilizing and enriching them for the Master's use.

JAMES ARMSTRONG DUNCAN was born in Norfolk, Va., April 14, 1830. He was dedicated to God from his birth, and trained in piety by his father, the venerable David Duncan, who has been prominent through two generations in the education of the youth of the Southern States, and who accepted the chair of Ancient Languages in Randolph-Macon College while James was a child; and by his mother, a woman of saintly character, who preceded her son by a few years to the heavenly land. In his boyhood he was a universal favorite, and displayed the gifts of mind and genial spirit and grace of manner which became so conspicuous in his riper years. We may mention his overflowing humor and gayety, tempered with a kind and generous nature, and a wonderful power of mimicry, which furnished unbounded amusement to his comrades, and indeed to persons of mature age, but was never used to wound in feeling or reputation. In 1847, during one of those gracious revivals with which our college has been signally blessed year after year, he sought and found peace in Jesus. In one of his latest and most effective sermons he described with deep feeling his own conversion, and affirmed that the vow of consecration then made had been the controlling principle of his ministry and the motive of those labors which his brethren sometimes thought excessive. He was licensed to preach probably the next year. The people of Mecklenburg still speak of his first sermons, in which they saw the prophecy of his future greatness. Having graduated in June, 1849, he was immediately placed in charge of a society in Alexandria which had just organized in connection with the M. E. Church, South. From that hour his popularity and success as a preacher and pastor began, and they steadily waxed fuller and more lustrous until at his death was quenched a star than which none shone with a purer and more brilliant radiance in the whole firmament of Methodism. A great revival attended his labors during the few months before the session of our Conference, and the prosperity of the Church was secured. He was kept on our northern border for nine years—in Fairfax, Leesburg, Alexandria, and Washington—everywhere beloved with enthusiasm, everywhere successful in his ministry. Then followed nine years of faithful labor in the city of Richmond. In 1857 he was sent to Trinity, one of our oldest and most important stations. There had come a crisis in the history of that church. Its prosperity was already impaired and seriously threatened by the unfortunate location of the house of worship. The young pastor soon crowded the building with an eager congregation. The eloquence of his discourses and the charm of his social manners were a theme of general comment through the city. Two series of sermons to young men and women proved peculiarly attractive, and resulted in extensive and lasting benefit. He took front rank among the pulpit orators of the land. All denominations flocked to hear him, and delighted in his company and friendship. These honors he wore with modest dignity, and consecrated with godly simplicity to the service of the Master. A little band from Trinity determined, under his leadership, to build a handsome and commodious church on Broad Street near the Capitol Square. In 1859 he was appointed to this new charge, and preached in a rented hall until the church was completed. It was dedicated in March, 1861, and with the exception of two years he continued in pastoral charge until the Conference of 1866. All this time his influence widened and deepened. He was a power in that city. When it became the capital of the Confederate States, and was crowded with representatives from all parts of the South, his faithful, spiritual, and eloquent preaching entranced, edified, encouraged, and impressed with saving efficacy an untold multitude, whose number eternity must reveal. No man in our day has accomplished more for Methodism or for the cause of Christ in the capital of Virginia than James A. Duncan. In addition to his pastorate, he edited the Richmond Christian Advocate from the autumn of 1860 to the fall of 1866. With characteristic generosity, he did this work without money and price—a free-will offering to the Church—excepting the two years in which he devoted his whole time to the paper. The readiness and versatility of his talents were admirably shown in this office; for, with many other claims upon his time, he wrote not only his editorials but much of the most popular and enjoyable correspondence with which the Advocate was enriched during those years. Great curiosity was aroused to find out the anonymous author of a series of letters published in the paper; but few, if any, suspected that they came from the fertile brain of the editor. Two years he was pastor of the Washington Street Church in Petersburg. Such men as D'Arcy Paul loved to speak of the rich spiritual feasts on which he fed them from the pulpit, and of the no less precious influence of his pastoral visits. In that city he suffered from a severe spell of nervous fever, his first illness since childhood. This brings us to a third era of nine years in his eventful life. After the war Randolph-Macon College reopened and feebly struggled for life. Dr. Duncan was among the strongest advocates of its transfer from Boydton to Ashland. The Board of Trustees resolved on this critical movement in the summer of 1868. The faculty resigned, and an election was held to fill the vacant places. Dr. Duncan was unanimously chosen President. He signified promptly a disposition to accept the responsible post, but demanded a few days in which to carry the question in private prayer to the God whom he served and to whom he belonged. Repeatedly and emphatically he declared the singleness of purpose with which he entered on this office, and that he would not remain one day in it if it were not for the conviction that he was thereby serving most efficiently the Church of Christ. No one who knew the man doubted his sincerity and simplicity of aim. He never sought self. He was indifferent to wealth in a degree which some even censured as extreme. He served not ambition. The esteem and approval of good men he must have prized; but never, so far as we know, did he exhibit any undue concern about such things. He belonged to Christ and to the Church for Christ's sake. He went in the courage of faith and the spirit of consecration to the college, and devoted himself to the duties in the chair of Moral Philosophy and in the presidency. The halls were filled with a larger number of students than had ever sought its advantages in its palmiest days before the war. He governed by his personal influence, by the love and confidence with which he inspired the young men; and diligence and good behavior were the rule, with rare exceptions. The reputation of the institution for a high grade of scholarship and thoroughness of culture was inferior to that of no college in the land. Young preachers, often numbering more than forty in a single session, sat under his special lectures in theology, and were molded by his example and his teaching. With the authority of a prophet, with the gentleness of a father, he preached to the students week after week the word of life, and saw many of them accept with glad hearts the yoke and burden of Christ. In private they revealed to him all that was in their hearts, and sought his sympathy and counsel. In public, whatever the occasion on which he spoke, they hung breathless on his lips, and received what he said as if from an angel of God. Those who have attended the commencements can bear witness to the outgushing of love, the wise and noble utterances, the manly frankness and boldness, and the tenderness almost motherly with which he bid those young men farewell in unstudied words of genuine eloquence; and the beaming faces, the streaming eyes, and the thunders of applause with which they responded. Nor were these his only labors. Often during the session he hurried off to preach in city or in country at the call of the churches of the Virginia and Baltimore Conferences, or in order to raise money for the college. The summer vacation was no rest to him, but his busiest period. Incessantly he traveled through the two Conferences, speaking on Christian education, and speaking at District Conferences, at protracted and camp meetings. He was in labor more abundant, not sparing himself; never reluctant to help in any good work. Everywhere he was sought, everywhere he was welcome. Thousands ascribe to him, under God, their first impulse to serve Christ, their revival from a lukewarm and languishing state, or their fuller consecration and seeking of a higher spiritual life. We may safely affirm that no man of his own generation has so powerfully impressed the religious character of an equal number within the bounds of these two Conferences as James A. Duncan. He was elected to the General Conferences of 1860, 1870, and 1874. That of 1870 he did not attend, his duties at the college not allowing his absence. He lacked only a few votes of being chosen bishop at that session, several delegates of this body who held him in high admiration and thought him in every way worthy of the honor withholding their votes because they believed him essential to Randolph-Macon College. From that time the mind of the whole Church turned to him as the fittest person to be elected to the episcopacy. In 1876 he attended the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church as one of the three fraternal messengers from our General Conference, and his address on that occasion was marked by its catholic spirit, fervent love for Christ, and grand and thrilling eloquence. In the summer of 1874, exhausted by the ceaseless toil of travel and preaching, and exposed to a malarial atmosphere, he was seized with fever, which took a typhoid phase, and he lay for weeks at the point of death. For one year he was scarcely fit for any work, and though he afterward rallied and resumed his course of untiring labors, the seeds of disease lurked in his system, and often developed in severe spells of sickness. Yet he worked on, cheerful, energetic, consumed with zeal. The past summer he spoke and preached with an ardor, power, and success equal to his happiest efforts in the years of his vigorous health. Sunday, September 9th, he was in Baltimore to preach at the reopening of Trinity; and this he did in the forenoon, despite intense physical pain. On his return to Ashland it was found that his jaw-bone was decayed and poison diffused throughout his frame. Erysipelas attacked his face. His sufferings were great, but borne with patience and sweetness. He sat up, however, a part of each day, and seemed not to suspect that his end drew near. On Monday morning, the 24th, he fell asleep in Jesus. O the surprise, the shock, the grief of heart, the sense of loss, the feeling of desolation which that news produced! Crowds attended his funeral at the Broad Street Church, which by a marble tablet acknowledges him its founder, and Bishop Doggett pronounced his eulogy. Memorial-services were held in Richmond, Petersburg, and Baltimore. Resolutions of highest praise were passed by Quarterly Conferences and by the faculties of colleges and universities. The secular and religious press honored his memory with heart-felt tributes. But all these honors fall far short of expressing the reverence and love with which he is cherished in thousands of hearts and homes. We yield to our sorrow of personal bereavement, and then chide ourselves for the selfishness when we ought to be grieving over the loss to the Church. We think with sadness and almost with despondency of the bereavement of our college and Conference and Church, and tears fill our eyes and a sword pierces our heart at the unbidden suggestion of the void in our own life which the death of this dear, this noble friend and brother has made. We have said little of his private life. He was early married to Miss Twitty, of North Carolina, who for many years proved a companion and helpmeet worthy of such a man, and passed away in 1870. In 1873 he married Miss Wade, daughter of a minister of the Baltimore Conference, who ministered to him and comforted him through the last years of comparative weakness and pain, and now mourns, yet in resignation and trust, his death. He leaves four children of the first and one of the second marriage. The widow and children have the deepest sympathies and fervent prayers of this Conference. A few more words we must say about this loved brother. He was a natural orator. Perhaps this remark should be changed, not to abate its force, but to enlarge its application: He was a born talker, equally gifted in conversation and in public discourse. He had every physical advantage—grace of attitude and gesture, a voice which everybody likened in sweetness, richness, and compass to the organ, and, we must add, to the organ when struck by a master musician, for he had his voice under perfect command, and moderated it to convey the fullest variety of pure and worthy sentiment; a countenance on which one loved to gaze, handsome in repose, lovely when lit up by the noble thoughts and feelings of his great soul. He had every intellectual and moral advantage; a ready flow of happy diction, which seemed perfectly spontaneous, and yet exactly suited the thought; a playful humor and, when needed, keenness of wit and satire which added zest to his serious speech, but detracted not from its weight; a quick insight into the heart of a subject, judgment remarkably sound, the logical spirit without slavery to logical forms, and an imagination which could sport like a butterfly amid flowers or soar like an eagle beyond the clouds; sensibility delicate, deep, strong; acute sympathy with his fellow-man; a response in his feelings to every thing true, pure, generous, and grand. Above all, he was full of the Holy Ghost, and could say, "For the love of Christ constraineth me." His adaptation to all classes of hearers, to all circumstances, was marvelous. He could interest and edify the child, the unlettered, the cultivated, the scholar, with equal ease. Every variety of style came naturally to him, from a familiar, homely talk, through all gradations of argument, instruction, and pathos, to the impassioned, sublime, and overwhelming appeal. The earnestness and simplicity of his soul were ever manifest: that he preached not self, not philosophy, not human wisdom, not excellency of speech, but Christ and him crucified—not for fame, but to win souls. In his social and pastoral qualities lie no less excelled. Others have equaled, none surpassed, him in diligence and fidelity; but who can compare in charm, in breadth and tenderness of sympathy, in aptness to guide and comfort, in power to draw forth trust and love? Placed in any parlor, at any table, among the rich or poor, he was the center of attraction—every eye fixed on him, every ear attending his voice. Let him sit by the bed of any invalid, though a stranger before that hour, and soon he would soothe and cheer, and the heart would open to his words as though he had been a life-long friend. The young and the old, men and women, the rude and the cultivated, felt free to confide to him their troubles, and ask his sympathy and aid. Yet, in the narrower circle of long-tried friendship and of home, never did there beat a truer, more constant, more generous heart. So unselfish, so frank, so forbearing, so trustful, so magnanimous; never giving up a friend, though he may have strayed far and long and fallen low; never slow in responding to any call for help. But we must close this sketch. He was our favorite, our ornament—we might almost say our idol. But we glorify God in him. He has been taken away in his prime, at the height of his usefulness, when we were leaning on his counsel and strength, when we were rejoicing in the prospect of many years of his company and service. But we thank God for his example, his work, and his prayers. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 18. Who are superannuated? Jesse Hord, Thomas Meyers, R. M. Leaton. 3.

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? A. B. Duval. 1.

A. B. DUVAL was born in Buckingham county, Virginia, November 6, 1799. He was reared by his grandfather, Samuel Duval, with whom he removed to Kentucky about the year 1810, and settled in Logan county. Here he married. He made a profession of religion in early life, but after the lapse of a few years was led away by false opinions. But his heart was dissatisfied, and in the year 1819 he was persuaded by an old family servant, Uncle Henry, to seek religion. He was converted when alone in the woods. He never doubted his conversion. In the same hour he received the impression that it was his duty to preach. He was licensed to preach August 24, 1822, by Charles Holliday. His credentials of ordination to deacon's and elder's orders bear dates respectively: December 29, 1827, signed by William McKendree; and November 9, 1834, signed by James O. Andrew. In the fall of 1826 or 1827 he joined the Tennessee Conference, and was appointed to Lebanon Circuit. During the year his health failed, and he located. Having a family to support, he commenced the study of medicine, and obtained a diploma. He continued to practice for thirty years, serving all the time as a local preacher. In 1860 Dr. Duval lost his wife, after a period of long and painful suffering. Feeling that he was alone in the world, he fully committed himself to God's work, and was received on trial into the Texas Conference at Chappell Hill in 1860, and appointed to Hodge's Bend Circuit. The remainder of his active ministry was spent in the following fields of labor: Seguin Circuit, one year; San Marcos Circuit, two years, Montgomery, one year; Moulton Circuit, Goliad, and Prairie Point, each one year. His health would not permit him to take regular work after 1868. He died at the residence of his son-in-law, Capt. Ben. E. McCulloch, Seguin, Texas, July 22, 1877. He died as he lived—full of faith and the Holy Ghost.

Ques. 20. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration? Their names were called over, one by one, and their characters examined and passed.

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference?

Ques. 17. Who are supernumerary? None.

Ques. 18. Who are superannuated? John Rhyne, Ed. T. Jones. 2.

Ques. 19. What preachers have died during the past year? Burwell Lee. 1.

BURWELL LEE was born in Davidson county, Tennessee, October 20, 1809; and died at his home in Batesville, Ark., May 28, 1877. He was converted in his sixteenth year, and though raised by Baptist parents, he cast his lot with the "people called Methodists." No sooner had he united with the Church than he felt called to preach, and forthwith he commenced, receiving license first to exhort at the hands of Bishop Morris, on the old Red River Circuit, in Kentucky, then in the bounds of the Tennessee Conference. He was licensed to preach by Robert Paine, now senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, July 18, 1828. The following fall he was received on trial into the Tennessee Conference, and was discontinued at the end of one year. In the autumn of 1830 he came to Arkansas, and was immediately employed by the presiding elder, and put in charge of two circuits—the White River and the Spring River. In 1831 he obtained a recommendation to the Annual Conference again, but being unable to get to Conference on account of sickness, he had the recommendation withheld. He renewed the application, and joining Conference in 1833, was ordained deacon by Bishop Soule, and sent to Cherokee Mission in company with John Harrell, and served the Indians three years. He was ordained elder by Bishop Roberts in 1834. In 1836 he was appointed presiding elder of the Batesville District, and at the commencement of his term settled in the town of Batesville, which place he called home until the close of his life. At the end of his third year as presiding elder, he obtained a supernumerary relation, but circumstances finally forced him to locate, and in the local ranks he remained until the fall of 1856. His life from that day to the day of his death is well known to thousands in Arkansas, and it is only necessary to say that he filled all his appointments with zeal and usefulness, and was faithful. Father Lee was for forty-nine years a preacher of the gospel—forty-seven of which were spent in Arkansas. He was among the first who planted the fruitful seed in this Western world, and he lived to see his Church a large and influential body of men and women; and when no longer able to lead the host, his brethren placed him on the superannuated list, and in this relation he closed his life. As a preacher he was plain, practical, pointed, and but few were ever more successful—having received into the Church more than five thousand persons. As a Methodist he was devoted, yielding to no man in his attachment to the doctrines and usages of the Church. His last sickness was long. He lingered two months. His sufferings at times were excruciating, yet he never complained; and if there was any impatience, it was to "depart and be with Christ." He frequently said: "I suffer, but it must be all right." He died in the faith. A multitude followed him to the grave, loving hands committed his body to the earth in the hope of a glorious resurrection. The writer will never forget a remark of the sainted John Mann. In his plain, blunt way, he said: "Burwell Lee! God bless him; he is worth his weight in gold, but he is worn out." And on May 28, 1877, "the weary wheels of life stood still."

Ques. 21. What is the number of local preachers and members in the several circuits, stations, and missions of the Conference? White Members, 11,839; colored members, 3; local preachers, 143. (No details.)

[The transferred preachers are reckoned with the Conferences from which they are transferred. The preachers who were discontinued this year (37), those who died during the year (40), and those who were located (60), are not counted. Those who were admitted on trial (234) and those who were re-admitted (38) are reckoned among the traveling preachers, though some of them are reckoned with the local preachers. The reports of bishops are imperfect. No missionary money is reported except that reported at the Conferences. Nearly all of our colored members have been absorbed by the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America and other Conferences.]
